May Push Emergency Energy Bill Aside

Congress Faces Quick Impeachment Task

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, which returns today from a month-long recess, may be wrestling with the historic issues of impeachment sooner than it expects because even supporters of President Nixon want a decision made quickly.

The question of impeachment may even push aside consideration of the emergency energy bill which Congress left hanging when it adjourned for the holidays Dec. 22.

Nixon met congressional leaders today to discuss the Middle East, and another meeting with the leaders is scheduled later in the week on energy. Nixon is working on the final forms of administration energy proposals and postponed his State of the Union address from Jan. 29 to Jan. 30 so leaders could attend a dinner at the Washington Press Club.

Nixon's opponents want the President impeached because of the Watergate scandal and other issues—there are 28 charges of "high crimes and misdemeanors" in impeachment resolutions filed so far. A number of Nixon's supporters want the House Judiciary Committee to get its investigation over with a vote taken so other work can begin.

Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., believes there is "sufficient evidence to sustain a finding of probable cause" of impeachment. "In the case of President Nixon," he said Saturday, "the still-expanding record is replete with evidence of both criminal and political offenses."

Sen. Hugh Scott, the GOP leader, said Sunday (on CBS: "Face the Nation") that he felt the President could not be removed except for a crime and "it would have to be a provable crime, not merely a charge which is bandied about from one newspaper to another."

Scott, who said he had information that would "exculpate" the President with regard to Watergate, agrees with colleagues like George Aiken,

R-Vt., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "that they ought to either impeach him or get off his back."

California Gov. Ronald Reagan said (on NBC's "Meet the Press") that Nixon should not resign, but he said of impeachment: "If Congress goes forward with this legal process and starts impeachment action, perhaps that's the road to get this settled once and for all and find out the answer."

House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said in a UPI Washington Window interview his talks with constituents convinced him that Americans "wish a decision to be made almost immediately ... and go on to the business of running the country."

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd, said he found the people of West Virginia were unsure.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Sunday (on ABC's "Issues and Answers") urged the Democratic party to go on record favoring impeachment of the President.

In the background are the feelings Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., one of the most powerful men in the House, expressed Friday—that Nixon should resign instead of subjecting the country to the torments of impeachment — and that he would vote to give him immunity from any crimes that the inquiry should find.

The debate over impeachment will probably first surface publicly when the House Judiciary Committee, which has already started its inquiry, with a million-dollar appropriation, asks for subpoena power. Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., predicts a committee vote in the "latter part of April or thereabouts."

While the discussion goes on, the lawmakers still face a mountain of legislation including a national budget probably exceeding $300 billion in a year of predicted recession, unemployment and inflation. The Pentagon wants to claim about a third of that and says it will ask for $92.6 billion—about $4.5 billion higher than estimates and $13 billion above the 1974 request.

Other issues expected to come up are mass transit—a veto fight over which could be an early test of whether Watergate has eroded Nixon's power in Congress—national health insurance, taxes, campaign reform, pension reform, housing and no-fault insurance.

Oil Officials Will Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — A growing controversy about whether the energy crisis is real or contrived is set for examination at a Senate hearing as the 93rd Congress reconvenes.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., called executives of the nation's seven largest oil companies to testify before his investigations subcommittee.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon, who has labeled as "a widespread misconception" charges that the public is being victimized by the oil industry, also was scheduled to appear before the panel.

At the same time, a joint economic subcommittee continues its probe of the accuracy and reliability of the energy data furnished government agencies by the oil companies.

The Senate leadership has said that the emergency energy bill that Congress failed to pass in the final days before the month-long winter recess would have first priority when Congress returned.

But Jackson now says that doubts about the severity of fuel shortages raise "questions as to the need for legislation granting government unprecedented broad authority to allocate and ration fuels and to mandate energy conservation measures."

Passage of the bill in the days before Christmas was blocked by a filibuster conducted by Republicans and senators from oil-producing states who objected to, among other things, a provision designed to prevent the petroleum industry from earning windfall profits as a result of fuel shortages.

Senate Minority leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who met with President Nixon Friday, indicated that the Administration wants to pass a "barebones" energy bill free of such controversial issues as excess profits. A similar Administration bid for a stripped-down version of the bill was defeated by the House just before Congress adjourned Dec. 22.

Senate sources say they expect little action before Wednesday, when Sens. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., and Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., the chief Republican opponents of the bill, are scheduled to return from a journey to the Middle East. The House is expected to await Senate action before taking up the bill.

Nixon is to meet later this week with Senate and House leaders to press for passage of the emergency energy legislation, which would give him the authority to order gasoline rationing and other conservation measures.

Aides said the President also would discuss the question of whether the crisis is fact or fiction "because it is a matter that he understands is of concern to the American people."

In energy-related developments Sunday:

—President Arnold Miller of the United Mine Workers union asserted in a letter to congressional leaders that coal reserves owned by oil companies have gone undeveloped because the firms want to keep petroleum dominant in the energy market. He called for a Senate-House inquiry into financial practices of leading energy conglomerates and possible anti-trust action to separate oil and coal interests.

—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said in a CBS interview that a Senate subcommittee he heads has developed information that major oil companies, with government assent, "have combined in such a way as to keep the price of gasoline high through the control of the supply at the wellhead."

Riding the Waves at City Intersection

Winter woes continue to confound area motorists as witness this flooded intersection at Broadway and Cornell Streets. The need for pontoons was brought about by the early weekend sleet and ice storm which clogged drains as the accumulation started to thaw. Today freezing rain spread into some sections of Ulster County making driving hazardous and delaying school openings in Saugerties and Duzine and Campus Schools of the New Paltz District. Onteora Central, Rondout Valley and Ellenville Schools were closed all day. A warming trend is predicted for Tuesday. (Freeman photo by Carey)

Transcripts Refute Dean

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detailed White House transcripts refuting charges by John W. Dean III that President Nixon knew of the Watergate cover-up were prepared but never released, an informed source has disclosed.

The source, who said he has read the transcript based on secret presidential tapes, said the White House had planned to release them as part of "Operation Candor" but later decided against making them public.

The source added, however, that the transcripts cover material available to the Watergate grand juries and could form the basis for perjury charges against Dean, the former White House counsel turned prime presidential accuser.

When Dean pleaded guilty last October to a single conspiracy charge in return for information about the Watergate cover-up, the special prosecutor's office left open the possibility of future prosecution for perjury.

The White House declined comment Sunday on the matter.

Neither Dean nor his lawyers were available for comment.

Specifically, the source said, the transcripts he read disprove Dean's claim that his conversations with Nixon show the President was aware of the Watergate cover-up before the March 21, 1973, date on which Nixon says he learned of it.

They show that conversations Dean said took place on different dates between Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973, all took place on the latter date, the source explained.

The source said the former White House counsel apparently was tripped up by the fact that, unknown to him when they occurred or when he testified, the conversations were being taped by the secret presidential recording system.

A primary reason for deciding against release of the transcripts was fear that such action could trigger demands for further disclosures, the source said. He said these demands would jeopardize the confidentiality that Nixon and his top aides have insisted should be maintained.

He also said that another reason was fear that publication of the transcripts, and widespread comment on them, could jeopardize successful prosecution of some of the Watergate-related indictments expected to be brought shortly by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The source disclosed existence of the transcripts after Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said on nationwide television he had information that could clear Nixon of Watergate wrongdoing but that the White House was unwilling to make it public.

Appearing on the CBS radio-television program, "Face the Nation," the Pennsylvania Republican said he has been unable to "break through the shell of advisors" surrounding Nixon who have urged the President to halt Watergate disclosures.

Scott also said the President should cooperate fully with the FBI in its investigation of gaps on a White House tape.

Scott said he spoke to Nixon Friday and urged the President to make available to the FBI "all personnel who had contact" with the tape.

Nixon Begins His Sixth Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is beginning his sixth year as president, emphasizing Middle East peace prospects and the search for energy and economic solutions but with Watergate and the issue of impeachment hanging over him.

Nixon scheduled a briefing for congressional leaders of both parties at which Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was to report personally on the troop disengagement agreement which he was instrumental in bringing about between Egyptian and Israeli forces.

Nixon completed five years as president Sunday, the anniversary of his inauguration Jan. 20, 1969.

In a flurry of activity on the opening day of the 2nd session of the 93rd Congress, the President moved to assert his leadership by holding meetings in two other fields of concern to the American people—the energy crisis and the economy.

He summoned to a meeting energy and internal revenue service officials to outline a preliminary system for monitoring of the petroleum industry's records on reserves, production and pricing.

Later in the day he was to confer with his "troika" of economic advisors—Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisors and Budget Director Roy Ash.

Informed sources said Nixon has put off for one day, from Jan. 29 to Jan. 30, his annual State of the Union address, which is expected to be nationally televised in the evening on prime time.

He made the switch to accommodate the Washington Press Club, which long has scheduled its annual dinner honoring Congress on the night of Jan. 29.

Henry Kissinger back in Washington after meeting with Syrian president Assad. Story on Page 14.

In the backdrop of all the President's activities still looms the problem of Watergate and the impeachment inquiry which the House Judiciary Committee is getting under way. The views of the lawmakers returning from their home districts concerning impeachment and other national problems will be laid out before Nixon in the coming days.

The White House turned aside with a "no comment" statement by Scott that the senator has information that could "exculpate" Nixon from charges of impeachable conduct in the Watergate.

White House aides have said "Operation Candor"—the program to tell Nixon's side of the Watergate story—has been officially discontinued.

Nixon celebrated his inaugural anniversary Saturday night by gathering his entire family and a few friends together at a dinner at the White House.

The friends included Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo of Key Biscayne; multimillionaire industrialist Robert H. Abplanalp; and Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and her escort, Robert Gray, former secretary to the cabinet in the Eisenhower administration.

Kissinger, fresh from a 15-day trip to negotiate a troop disengagement in the Middle East, today briefed congressional leaders at the White House.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., greeted Kissinger as they shook hands. Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by President Nixon to hear a report on the Israeli-Arab agreement.

Kissinger returned before dawn from his 11-day journey that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt and what Kissinger said was "real progress" toward a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

Those attending the briefing included members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

Regional Landfills Proposed for Ulster

By CARL GRAHAM

ROSENDALE William Ritter, newly elected councilman of the Town of Rosendale, wants the county to take over waste disposal by purchasing and operating a series of regional landfills.

One of the towns that would surely benefit from such a move would be Rosendale, faced with an urgent landfill problem and working desperately to comply with Department of Environmental Conservation requirements for its waste disposal operation.

There's no way we can maintain our landfill in the way required by DEC," Ritter said Friday. "I agree with them that landfills should be taken care of properly, but I think they should work with the county. They can set rules and regulations, but they should consider the cost to taxpayers."

The town has searched for several months for a new site to replace the present landfill on Hickory Bush Road, but to no avail. Ritter, asked how the county could find a site for a larger regional landfill if the town had been unable to find one suited to its needs, said that DEC has the right to declare any piece of land for sale to be suitable for a landfill, provided test borings and other considerations are up to standard.

Although DEC, unlike local municipalities, could override local zoning regulations, it does not have the right of condemnation and designation of a site as a landfill would apply only to land on the market for sale, he said.

"You can spend $80,000 to $100,000 a year on a small landfill," Ritter said. "That's a big burden on town taxpayers. I believe the only way we can solve the problem is on a countywide basis."

Acquiring landfills and operating them on a countywide basis would result in substantial savings, Ritter maintained. Local governmental units are hard pressed to finance purchases of bulldozers and other large pieces of machinery needed to keep their landfills up to DEC standards, but a larger regional operation would justify such purchases. Regional landfills could be supported by a county tax assessed against participating towns on a per capita basis, he said.

Ritter said he had discussed his proposal with Town Supervisor Richard Glazer, who took office with him on Jan. 1 and immediately found himself faced with a landfill plagued with drainage, compaction, coverage and fencing problems that violate DEC regulations.

Ritter said Glazer will discuss the matter with Ulster County Legislator Louis M. Klein and ask him to sponsor enabling legislation at the legislature's next meeting.

Marlow Hits Proposal

Early School Opening Opposed

children who must wait in darkness for early morning school buses now that the country has gone on Daylight Saving Time, at part-time jobs," he pointed out. Last Tuesday night the Woodstock Town Board passed a resolution urging the three school districts (Ontario, Kingston, Saugerties) represented in the town to consider starting school from one-half to an hour later during the winter months, citing hazardous conditions for children who must wait for morning buses in darkness.

"Even if we did move the starting time ahead, some children will still have to leave home in darkness," Dr. Marlow said. Dr. Marlow said he was aware of safety problems created by the change to Daylight Saving Time, but that other complicating factors were responsible for his decision. He cited problems of parents who must work, leaving children unsupervised for additional periods of time if starting times are delayed, and said that many children would have to get up at the same time they now do because of other family commitments.

Another factor involves several of the district's teachers who are taking courses at the State University College at New Paltz. A later school day would make it impossible for some of them to meet classroom schedules for their own schooling, he said.

Some bus contractors have expressed their concerns after other bus commitments work school and some teachers work at part-time jobs," he pointed out.

Marlow noted that some students are taken to bus stops by their parents who wait there with the child until the bus arrives, using the flasher lights on their cars to protect the children from other motorists who might be unaware of the children's presence.

He said he had met Thursday with other Ulster County school superintendents to discuss the problem, and that they had unanimously agreed that there should be no change in starting times because of the various factors involved.

Marlow said that he and other superintendents had cut a number of 30-second public service announcements for airing on various radio stations, urging motorists to be on the lookout for children going to and waiting in bus stops.

He said the district would emphasize to parents what they can do to alleviate hazardous traffic situations, and that the possibility of a change in starting times would be discussed again for the 1974-75 school year.

"I've only had one complaint from a parent since we went to Daylight Saving Time," he said.

Catskill Wood Lots...A Vanishing Era

HOBART The trend that has seen commercial wood lots fade from the Catskill Mountain scene in recent years was the topic of discussion at the recent meeting of the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development in Hobart.

A panel of five men active in the forestry profession participated in the seminar. It was their conclusion that one of the major problems affecting the industry is that land prices and taxes have increased with the greater demand for recreational land use. As a result, many small wood lot owners, faced with high taxes and attracted to high prices offered for their land by developers, are selling out rather than continue in the business. One seminar participant, Michael Demaree, warned that the demand for forest products is rapidly increasing and will reach the critical level by the year 2000.

Many of the speakers urged revision of the Fisher Tax Act, which was originally intended as an incentive for small lot owners to raise timber. They suggested a need to stabilize taxes over the long period of time while trees are growing and there is little income from the land.

Dr. Sherret Chase, president of the Catskill Center, noted that not only must tax relief be provided for the small woodlot owner, but assistance must be given to the townships to make up for the loss in tax revenues which results when the land is not used for higher value recreational purposes.

Roger Schneider, a member of the Office of Planning Services in Syracuse, urged an increase in both the quantity and quality of timber products and an improvement in wildlife management and public use of timber lands. He noted that about 84 per cent of forest land is in private ownership, much of which is in lots of less than 50 acres.

The participants also proposed that foresters be allowed to cut mature trees on forest preserve lands, both to improve the quality of the forest and to allow better wildlife management.

Ulster College to Offer Course for Local Officials

KINGSTON New Government officials on all levels of Ulster County Government will be afforded a refresher course and training in the functions of government, legislative powers and duties beginning in February.

A joint venture of the Ulster County Legislature and Community College, the course is being planned by representatives of both bodies.

Dates and place for the course will be determined and publicized according to the course. The course is being planned by representatives of both bodies.

The course, which was organized by the Local Government Program at Cornell University, Ithaca, is designed for newly-elected local officials.

Noe, Nace and Dr. Donald Katt of UCCC, who recently attended the trainers training session at Cornell, will teach the course here.

The course has three specific goals:

To provide the newly-elected legislator with a working knowledge of the legislative powers which may be used to achieve the board's objectives; to help the legislator improve his planning and interpersonal skills through which the powers are utilized and to familiarize him with his role in local government.

The course will cover the areas of board authority, and the use of this authority in problem situations. Also, course emphasis will be placed on factors limiting the board's authority, terminology and board procedures such as resolutions, local laws, ordinances and referenda.

Included as a course handbook is a "Legislative Guide" which has been prepared by Cornell. An individual guide has been written for each division of New York State local government: county, city, town, and village. The laws applicable to each division of government have been condensed from lengthy, complicated legal terminology into brief statements written in lay language. The guide is designed as a reference guide to the powers, duties and responsibilities of local legislators, and explains many legal procedures and alternatives involved in the legislative process.

The development of course materials and the training of course trainers was funded by an Intergovernmental Personnel Act grant through the New York State Office for Local Government.

Officeholders in Ulster County should advise the County Legislature Office in Kingston if they are interested.

Auditors Critical of State JDA Spending

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Job Development Authority spends only one-quarter to one-third of its funds on the financing of industrial expansion, its statutory purpose, auditors reported today.

The semi-autonomous authority devotes most of its income from state-guaranteed bonds to investment in U.S. Treasury notes, according to a report by the state Department of Audit and Control.

The auditors, sharply criticizing the JDA's financial practices and questioning its reported accomplishments, called on the legislature to reassess the authority's basic objectives.

They recommended that the lawmakers consider replacing the JDA's present direct loan program with a loan-guarantee program. They also suggested that the JDA merge its offices in New York City and Albany.

The JDA was established in 1961 to make low-cost mortgage loans for plant expansion, construction and purchasing, to improve employment opportunities by attracting or retaining industry in the state.

The authority has reported that from January 1962 through March 1973 it had approved $27 million. The projects created 20,000 new jobs and saved an additional 6,800 jobs, the JDA said.

The audit report said the authority sold $45 million in bonds in April 1971, which provided $12 million in new funds for mortgages. But the auditors said the average balance of outstanding mortgage loans increased by only $3.7 million during the year.

Most of the new funds were invested in Treasury bills, the report said.

"The authority should reduce its borrowing activity to bring it in line with its current need for loan funds," the auditors recommended.

In response, the authority said it needed a reasonable "inventory" of money on hand for loan commitment.

The audit team, which examined JDA records for the fiscal years 1969 through 1973, said it found authority figures for loans and jobs generated to be considerably overstated.

The JDA reported 183 loans approved totaling $27.3 million and creating or saving 9,619 jobs in the first four years of that period. The auditors said that, although the approval figure was roughly accurate, only 122 loans had actually been closed, totaling $15.5 million and involving 5,914 jobs. About 35 approved loans were never granted and another 38 were being closed, they said.

The report also complained that such JDA loan costs about $10,000 in administrative expenses for the authority. The average loan is $120,000.

"We suggest that this cost is out of proportion to the benefits derived from maintaining the (two) offices, and we recommend the JDA consolidate all administrative functions at one location," the auditors wrote.

They also recommended that the authority gear its efforts more toward areas of the state with the highest unemployment rates, perhaps offering better interest rates for industrial loans in those areas.

The auditors concluded with a recommendation for at least a partial loan-guarantee program, and possibly for a complete conversion of the direct-loan system.

A study of similar development authorities in other states showed that they can promote industrial expansion just as effectively through loan-guarantee programs and with less administrative expense, they said.

Three Big Issues For Legislators

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State under pressure from legislative leaders to reduce taxes. Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea of Montauk and Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson, both Republicans, seek another one-year suspension of the 2.5 per cent surcharge on state income taxes.

Anderson also wants an increase on an individual's tax deductions from $650 to $700 per dependent.

The energy seminar, said Duryea, "is designed to open a meaningful dialogue between the scientific and political worlds to better resolve the short-term energy crisis and prepare for our needs in the next and future generations."

Participants include J. Frederick Weinhold, senior engineer of the Energy Policy Project of the Ford Foundation, and Bernard H. Manheimer, an engineering psychologist and former New York City councilman.

The budget plan will determine state spending for the 1974-75 fiscal year, which begins April 1. When Nelson A. Rockefeller was governor, the budget plan was a device to launch broad new programs and revise or abandon old ones. Wilson has promised no massive spending programs. He is

Quarterfinals Get Underway In Chess Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former world champion Tigran Petrosian of the Soviet Union and Lajos Portisch of Hungary played to a draw on the Spanish island of Majorca Sunday night in the second game of their quarterfinal match in the World Chess Championship.

There are four pairs of players meeting around the world in the beginning of an elimination series to decide who will take on world champion Bobby Fischer of the United States in 1975.

Petrosian and Portisch agreed to their second straight draw after the 40th move with equal material on the board. They drew their first game Friday in 18 moves. Only victories count in the scoring.

Their third game will be played Tuesday.

At Augusta, Ga., Victor Korchnoi of the Soviet Union and Henrique Mecking of Brazil fought to another tie after 40 moves on Sunday. It was the third draw in four games. The third game, which was adjourned Saturday after 42 moves, was to be completed Monday.

Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union, trying for his second victory against U.S. champion Robert Byrne in the quarterfinals, was to open with the white pieces Monday in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Byrne and Spassky will face off for the fourth time with Spassky holding the psychological advantage of beating Byrne in their third game, which concluded Saturday when Byrne conceded on his 57th move. The first two games ended in draws.

In Moscow, Soviet grandmasters Anatoly Karpov and Lev Polugaevsky played to a draw Saturday night after 42 moves in their second game. Their next game is on Monday.

The first player to win three games wins the match. If after 16 games neither player has three victories, the one in the lead is declared the winner. If they are tied, the judge flips a coin.

In the semifinals, scheduled for April, the winners of the Majorca and Augusta contests will play each other, as will the victors from the quarterfinals in San Juan and Moscow.

Foam Used to Douse Fire on Mississippi

PILOTTOWN, La. (UPI) — people we believe to be Thousands of gallons of foam poured continuously on a burning oil tanker for three days finally smothered the inferno at the mouth of the Mississippi River Sunday, opening the nation's most important inland waterway to river traffic for the first time since Friday.

The 155-foot tanker Key Trader collided with the 657-foot Norwegian ship Buane Friday. The tanker, carrying 152,000 barrels of home heating oil, burst into flames and ruptured turning the Mississippi into a river of fire extending for a mile.

Five persons were killed, eight injured and 11 still were missing today. Among those killed were the wife and the 5-year-old daughter of the Buane's second engineer.

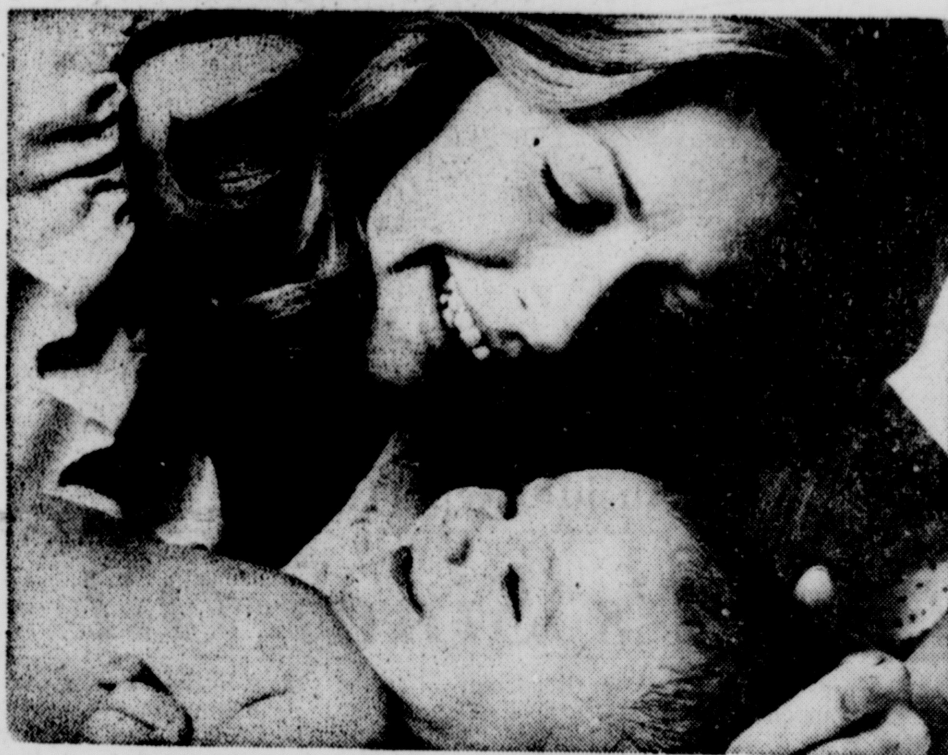

A search for the missing resumes today. "Regardless of how many missing, we will continue to search until we can account for everyone or until all hope is lost for recovering them," Coast Guard spokesman Dave Cipra said.

Foam flown to the mouth of the Mississippi from six states was used to put out the fire. "The fire's out on the Buane and there is still smoke but not visible flames above the deck on the tanker," a spokesman said.

"The river has been closed, but they're letting some light ships come in," river pilot James Bell said. "There are 65 ships or more waiting to come up the river."

The survivors had to leap from the ships' burning decks and swim for at least an hour in the burning waters. Many of the survivors were hospitalized with burns and bruises.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 21, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Although each new Watergate twist tightens the vise on President Nixon, the inquiry into his impeachment is floundering. The doors have been shut tight on the House Judiciary Committee's investigation. Only staff members are permitted to enter the offices and no papers may be removed. Attorneys and investigators have been given strict orders not to discuss their work with the press.

What the staff is really hiding behind the guarded doors, however, is their own inaction and lack of direction. Here are the facts which we have been able to dig out:

— House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., has assured House Republican leader John Rhodes privately that the impeachment inquiry should be concluded in April. Those close to the investigation don't see how they possibly can meet the deadline.

NO INTERVIEWS

— At this writing, not a single witness against the President has been interviewed directly by the committee's investigators. Instead, they have spent their time studying the work of other investigations.

— The White House has not been approached, even informally, to provide any information which might help to speed the inquiry. Staff members haven't even been allowed to request personnel lists or telephone numbers from the White House.

— Although documents related to the President's personal finances were available to committee sleuths from other sources, the information was not accepted because the committee "was not ready for them yet."

— Although chief counsel John Doar has a staff of about 40 under his command, more than half have been assigned merely to answer the routine impeachment mail that has been flooding into the committee's office.

NO COORDINATION

— Some of the investigators, because of administrative problems, spend much of their time reading newspapers and novels. Although they are supposed to coordinate their work, some staff members actually haven't met each other. At 5 p.m., there is a rush for the exits.

— Instead of turning up evidence that would justify impeachment, the committee is concentrating its efforts on researching what offenses might constitute grounds for impeachment.

— In an interview with us, Doar placed great stress on setting up a secure and elaborate filing system. The problem at the moment is that nothing of significance has been collected for those well-organized file drawers.

— Staff members have been warned in strong terms that they will be summarily fired if they are caught talking with reporters. This injunction has worked fairly well, since the committee hasn't turned up anything newsworthy and most aides are reluctant to admit the probe's shortcomings.

HISTORY, NOT HEADLINE

Chairman Rodino told us he is more interested in making history than headlines. The removal of a sitting President, Rodino said, can be justified only by the most careful and thorough investigation.

The evidence is now being assembled by the staff which will carefully piece it together, he said. Then they will start searching for the missing jigsaw pieces. This will require access, he suggested, to White House tapes and documents.

He wants to have his case ready, he said, before he asks the House for subpoena power. The committee's constitutional experts say the White House cannot claim executive privilege as an excuse for withholding evidence from an impeachment inquiry. Any refusal by the White House to honor a subpoena would, itself, be grounds for impeachment, they believe.

Our committee sources have told us the staff hasn't completed enough background work to issue subpoenas or to begin its proceedings. But Chairman Rodino assured us he is more committed to a thorough investigation than an April deadline.

PERSONA NON GRATA: Robert Chenoweth returned home last March after spending five years in North Vietnamese prisons. He tried to go back to South Vietnam a few days ago. The Saigon government, for which he had risked his life, wouldn't let him into the country.

He was one of the eight POWs accused by Air Force Col. Theodore Guy of "collaborating" with the enemy. The Pentagon, however, refused to press charges.

Chenoweth wanted to go back to Saigon, he told us, to compare the differences between South Vietnamese prisons and North Vietnamese prisons. "He had spoken to former 'political prisoners,'" he said, and "there's no doubt in my mind that the South Vietnamese prisoners had it worse than I did."

When Chenoweth stopped at the Vietnamese consulate in San Francisco to pick up his visa, it was stamped "void." He had been denied entry into the country, he was told, because of his "pro-Communist activities" — a euphemism used by the South Vietnamese to describe anyone who opposes the Thieu regime.

A South Vietnamese spokesman told us: "We are willing to consider his application," but added "we would have to take into consideration his activities."

Health Insurance Plan

President Nixon's health bill is being prepared for submission to Congress the last 10 days of this month. Primarily, it will contain a national health insurance program for all Americans, costing $37.5 billion next year.

Big as the proposed bill may be, it is far less than health plans considered by various members of Congress, particularly the stratospheric cost attributed to one by Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. He and others are expected to be very critical of the Nixon measure.

Under the President's plan, $5.6 billion would be spent in addition to money that would have gone into the existing Medicare and Medicaid programs, plus contributions from employees, employers and states. The plan was outlined by Casper W. Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The proposal would aid low income people without children, the unemployed and people who retire before the age of 65. It would cover mental health, prescription drugs and dental care for children. Higher income people would pay the first $150 of expenses in a year and 25 per cent of the remainder up to $1,500 a year. It is expected to provide $450 in benefits per employee and $575 for a family of four each year on a national average.

The extremely complicated bill will require wide debate. It is due to be adopted this year because of its appeal in an election year.

Worries on Crime

With a new city administration, New Yorkers are telling Mayor Abe Beame that crime is the worst problem they face personally and the one issue they would most like him to tackle. Rich and poor, conservative and liberal, black and white, two-third of people surveyed named crime, or danger in the street, or law and order, as their big preoccupation.

Though crime is the worst affliction of the bigger cities, smaller towns are not immune. A survey of the things on readers' minds is as important in a small town as in big, for there are critical issues everywhere.

For instance, after crime, one out of five New Yorkers are concerned about the high cost of living and inflation; transportation, because they are threatened with a huge rise in their 35-cent subway and bus fares; and drug abuse. Then come, in order, housing, problems of the aged, schools, unemployment, city services, pollution, welfare abuse, courts, garbage collection, energy shortages, health care, deteriorating neighborhoods, traffic and racial discrimination.

'Flu' Monday

A study of respiratory diseases published in the Journal of the American Medical Association calls it "Flu Monday" because more respiratory illnesses start on Monday than any other day of the week.

Two University of Michigan epidemiologists conducted the study in Tecumseh, a city of 10,000 people 26 miles from Ann Arbor. The two investigators, Dr. Arnold S. Monto and Dr. Betty W. Ullman, based their conclusions on an analysis of 14,600 respiratory infections among 4,905 people randomly selected from the 56-square-mile area surrounding Tecumseh. The illnesses occurred in a six-year study from 1965 to 1971.

Flu Monday was a striking finding among 5- to 19-year-olds, the school age population. This very definite pattern suggested to the researchers that school attendance might be a primary factor in transmitting the respiratory infection. The investigators also pointed out that the involvement may relate only to psychological and other similar stresses that are most sharply felt at the start of the school week.

Respiratory diseases are the most important cause of short term illness in the population. Past data is being analyzed for correlation between respiratory illness and the types of heating, number of rooms in a household and other environmental factors.

WASHINGTON — The sudden explosion in the price of Middle Eastern oil is adding a dangerous new obstacle to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's efforts to end the 25-year Arab-Israeli war.

The reason lies in Israel's prospective "loss" of close to one billion dollars a year of crude oil in the Sinai Belayim field seized from Egypt in the 1967 six-day war and pumped by Israel ever since.

Israel is now staggering under a huge foreign debt, rising inflation and the exorbitant costs of the Yom Kippur war. Now it faces the necessity of buying foreign oil in place of the lost Sinai production at prohibitively expensive prices.

The price has almost quadrupled since the Yom Kippur war and is now fluctuating in the range of $12 to $17 a barrel. At its present Israeli consumption rate, and at a cost of only $15 per barrel, Israel would be shelling out over $700 million a year just to keep even with its present consumption of 130,000 barrels a day.

"The hottest sleeper in the Middle East today is not the Arab oil embargo or the Suez Canal," says one shrewd oil man. "It's how Israel can be forced to give back the oil wells it took from Egypt seven years ago."

The wells seized in 1967 are located about 100 miles south of Suez City along the east coast of the Gulf of Suez, both on land and in shallow gulf waters. Other wells in Suez gulf waters are still in Egyptian hands. In 1969, King Resources of Denver, Colo., a major industrial and mining concern, sent an oil rig from Canada toward the Gulf of Suez under contract to Israel for offshore drilling.

Before it arrived, however, the Italian government, which holds the major concession in Sinai's Belayim field, privately but forcefully protested that it would violate international law. Israel backed off its illegal exploration and the rig returned to Canada.

The explosive question of the Sinai oil has not yet reached the negotiating table in Geneva. Indeed, it will not become a major issue until after the first Israeli-Egyptian agreement has been achieved: the separation-of-forces deal which Kissinger negotiated on his current visit to Egypt and Israel.

No matter what deal Kissinger can make to move the Israeli army out of its positions on the west bank of the Suez Canal, that preliminary withdrawal will not include giving up the rich Belayim oil field. That would wait for the second or third stage of what President Nixon and virtually the entire world want Israel to do: withdraw from all but insubstantial portions of the Egyptian territory seized in 1967.

But once that stage is reached, Israel will have only one apparent source for replacement; oil-rich Iran. It is inconceivable that any Arab oil state would agree to sell oil to Israel until after Israeli withdrawal not only from the Sinai but also from major portions of the west bank of Jordan and the Syrian Golan Heights—and perhaps not then.

In fact, so long as the issue of the Palestinian refugees is unresolved, it is dubious in the extreme that any Arab state would supply oil to Israel, whose consumption has increased more than 50 per cent since the 1967 war.

The fear in Egypt, still unpublicized, is that Israel's intention to hang onto the Belayim field is grossly underestimated here. This may explain the blatant threats which have been appearing recently in Mohammed Hassan Heykel's newspaper, Al-Ahram. On Dec. 28, for example, the influential Cairo editor wrote ominously that following Egyptian successes in the "fourth round," last October, Israel faces "a disaster in the fifth round, a holocaust in the sixth round and the end of everything in the seventh round."

Perhaps with the Belayim oil in mind, Heykel predicted a mood of "obstinacy to the point of self-destruction" in Israel in the coming months. These black sentiments mean only one thing: that whatever the trials of Kissinger in arranging the first-stage withdrawal, they will be dangerously multiplied for the second and subsequent stages, and Sinai oil will be a principal reason.

Big John Is a Favorite Subject

BERRY'S WORLD

"I KNOW you're a regular customer, Mr. Walker, but we're out of gas and that's that!"

Big John died five years ago. Mail comes to this desk asking for more stories about him. More mail than any other subject. Amazing...

He was born John Michael Bishop, Oct. 29, 1883, on Fulton Avenue, Jersey City, N.J. He was the oldest of seven. His father shoveled coal in an oil refinery. The old man had a heavy brogue. He had been raised on a farm at Lower Scooby, Ennescorthy, County of Wexford, Ireland.

Big John's mother was a tiny woman named Mary Murphy. She was born on a sailing ship negotiating the Straits of Gibraltar in 1861. Her father was from Cork, serving as a Colour Sergeant in the British army.

Her mother died giving birth. Mary Murphy grew up small and strict. At 17, she emigrated to America by steerage and got a job working for Jews in Washington Heights, New York City. She said they had been so kind to her that she would not permit an anti-Semitic remark, even in jest.

I don't know how she met Jim Bishop. There was a three-year courtship. They married and lived in Jersey City. Fulton Avenue was farm area. St. Paul's R.C. Church was a mile south.

Big John was a good student. He went through elementary school in three years. Young Sister Joseph penned a note to Mary Murphy Bishop: "Your son John has great intelligence and application. I predict a fine future for him."

The letter was placed inside the family bible. It was taken out only when Irishmen and their wives arrived at the little house on state occasions to smoke clay pipes, imbibe a dram, and lie about how good the old country had been.

The Bishops were always poor. Often, they lived on "stirabout" — a porridge. A pot of vegetable soup with a marrow bone was good for two days. In December, 1895, the father developed asthma.

Often he gasped for breath on a bed as Mary knelt and recited the rosary.

He had been breathing bituminous coal for years. In December, 1898, the seven children developed sore throats. The doctor, in swallows and high hat, said it was diphtheria. The day before Christmas, three died: Jim, Margaret and Mary.

Old man Routh closed the folding door to the living room. When he opened it, three small white caskets were evenly spaced. The father put the Christmas tree in the alley. Mary Bishop doffed her apron, walked in and looked at each of the wax faces.

She knelt. "Thy will be done," she said. No tears. At the turn of the century, two more girls were born. They were christened Margaret and Mary. Two years later, at age 41, Jim Bishop died strangling for breath.

Mary walked three doors to the landlord's house. She knocked. "I must tell you," she said, "the rent will be a few days late this month." He tried to hush her. "I'd be obliged if your missus would tell the ladies of the neighborhood I'm taking in washing from now on."

John weeded a farm from dawn until schooltime. Then he weeded from 3:15 p.m. until sundown. He got $2 a week. His mother gave him a nickel. They lived. They made it. He was a big, intelligent aggressive type and he wanted to study law.

He went to P.S. 14 at night. For the rest of his life, he never stopped studying. At age 85, he died with dictionaries and volumes of encyclopedias open in his room.

Law was too high a goal. He became a flagman on the Pennsylvania R.R. highballing freights from Jersey City to Harrisburg, Pa. He met Jenny Tier, married her after six years of love and disagreements, and became a policeman. In 1919, he was appointed the youngest lieutenant on the force.

He was assigned to the Chief's office and, because he was articulate and could make decisions, he literally ran the department. There were three of us — Jim, John, Adele. Big John fell in love with my mother's best friend and left home for 16 years.

When they were old, she took him back. He repented by cooking for her, cleaning the house and asking forgiveness. Jenny was blind. One day he went back to St. Paul's and found that Sister Joseph, age 93, was still alive.

And deaf. She was in a wheelchair. "John Bishop," she murmured, "Lived on Fulton Avenue — his mother was a widow woman. I predicted a great future for him. What did you do with your life?"

Proudly, he shouted: "I'm a lieutenant of police, Sister." She shook her head. "What a pity," she murmured. "What a pity..."

Linda Denies Killing Her Father

By JEFF GREENE

KINGSTON
"Linda, did you kill your father?"

"No, I did not."

And, so began the manslaughter trial of Linda May Tubby, entering its sixth day at the Ulster County Court House.

Under examination by defense attorney John Gotelli, Linda May, charged with slaying her father, Kenneth in his bed on the morning of July 1, 1973, offered testimony in contradiction to what her mother, Myrtle Tubby had previously claimed.

The defendant testified that on the night of June 30, she awoke and saw her mother standing in the kitchen of their home drinking coffee and smoking a cigarette. Linda said her mother told her, "I think I hear Daddy choking. Would you go upstairs and check on him?"

Linda said she took a flashlight and went upstairs and saw her father "lying in a pool of blood with a gun alongside his head."

She then testified that she said to her mother when she came down stairs, "You should see what Daddy has done to himself."

Linda said her mother replied, "I cannot stand the sight of blood."

Gotelli then asked Linda had she mentioned that she saw blood to her mother. To this Linda replied, "No."

In previous testimony Mrs. Tubby said she heard Linda go upstairs during the middle of the night, then heard a shot and that when Linda came downstairs, she was holding a gun in her hand. The mother also testified at that point that Linda said, "Mommie, I just killed Daddy."

Today Linda testified, "I loved my father very much."

Mrs. Tubby had also testified that her daughter had twice made remarks the night before the alleged slaying, which threatened her father's life.

Mrs. Tubby said that Linda entered the kitchen while her father was eating and said, "You had better eat because this will be your last supper."

Linda denied having made such a threat.

Mrs. Tubby had testified that Linda had frequent arguments before the summations. The with her father concerning case is expected to go to the jury today or tomorrow.

Dollar Hits Record High

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar surged to an all-time record value in London today and leaped sharply on European markets following France's action in floating the French franc. Gold zoomed sky-high, to an all-time record price of $138.50 an ounce in London.

In London exchanges opened at $2.16 to the pound, with some trades at $2.1580. Never before had the pound's value sunk below $2.16, and only once before was that level touched.

Gold opened at $136.50 an ounce, itself a record, and then rocketed to a spread of $137 to $140 an ounce. It slipped back slightly to $137.50.

European money markets were thrown into some turmoil over France's Saturday decision to float the franc, that is, to allow it to find its own level without central bank intervention.

Against the dollar the official commercial dollar, now also floating freely, opened at 5.35 francs, its highest price since the first dollar devaluation in 1971. Its official price Friday was 4.985 francs to the dollar.

The financial dollar used by tourists and speculators leaped today to 5.45 francs, up from Friday's 5.17. French dealers said trading on both markets was hectic.

Frankfurt's currency market was closed because of the French action. But in private deals the dollar was priced at 2.823 marks, the highest since Jan. 7, and it later climbed sharply to 2.87 marks in deals between banks.

Manhattan Assemblyman Anthony Oliveri was the guest speaker although he was delayed about an hour due to a previous engagement. Oliveri, expected to be a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke of the rising tide of Democratic strength and unity across the state and predicted unprecedented victories this fall.

Woerner, in a brief statement, declared that the party's one defeat — Third War Republican Alderman Brian D. Smith was reelected, beating Paul J. Mills — was in fact a victory, of sorts. "We cut that man's plurality way down" — Smith had won by 150 votes in 1971; he won by about 50 last year — "That's a victory for us," reasoned Woerner.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two top government fiscal advisers predict higher prices and a sluggish economy in coming months because of the oil shortage, but both are optimistic for some relief by mid-year.

Energy Info Course Slated

ALBANY
Energy Information Coordinator, including Charles L. Arnold of Ulster County, appointed by the "Big Six" cities and the 57 counties outside New York City will attend a training session sponsored by the State Office for Local Government at Albany, Tuesday, Jan. 22.

Dr. Sal J. Prezioso, State Commissioner for Local Government, said they will be briefed on their new responsibilities and on federal and state fuel allocation programs, as well as local problems and measures.

"While this program is being set up now to cope with the immediate crisis this winter," Prezioso said, "our most important objective is to convince everyone that this is going to be a continuing problem for several years."

"The use of smaller amounts of heat, light and air conditioning in individual buildings and the use of less gasoline in individual vehicles can, on a statewide basis over the coming months and years, conserve important quantities of fuel and energy," said Prezioso.

Mr. J. Oliver Finds Way To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Junction City, Kansas.—Mr. J. Oliver writes: "I couldn't get relief. Then I bought Preparation H. I surely recommend it. It's worth its weight in gold."

(Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like Preparation H.)

No Fault Savings... $15 Says State Commissioner

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state's insurance superintendent says New York motorists can expect an average savings of $15 per automobile when the no-fault auto insurance law goes into effect Feb. 1.

Any savings will be spread evenly across all groups of motorists, Benjamin R. Schenck said in a broadcast interview Sunday.

He said the reduction in premium ranges "from practically nothing to up to $150 in certain cases, depending on the kind of insurance you buy and the company you have, and so on."

No one group of motorists would benefit more than any other under the new law, voted into effect by the state legislature during its last session, he said.

"Simply," Schenck said, "the biggest dollar savings will go to those people who pay the highest premiums and the smallest to those who pay the smallest premiums."

He said the new law would have no initial impact on the number of accidents before the courts. In fact, he said, the courts will not begin to feel a reduced caseload until six months after the law became effective.

Schenck predicted a decrease in insurance rates if the change in driving habits during the gasoline shortage continued.

"But I would add a qualification," he said. "And that is whether the experience of the last month or two is going to be typical of the experience over the next year or two."

Schenck made his remarks on WCBS Radio's "Let's find out" program.

Equivalency Classes Set

KINGSTON — The Continuing Education Program of Kingston City Schools Consolidated will conduct high school equivalency preparation classes for out-of-school youths and adults.

H. Raymond Norman, director of continuing education, said that the course will provide students with the skills and understanding necessary to perform satisfactory on the High School Level Tests of General Education Development. Those who obtain satisfactory scores on this test are eligible to receive a New York State High School Equivalency Diploma, the legal equivalent of a regular diploma issued by a local high school.

Students may enter the program at any time, and students who read at a seventh grade level will be prepared to pass the test within 150 hours of instruction, Norman said. Students with higher reading scores may require only a few weeks of preparation.

Further information and enrollment procedures may be obtained by calling the Continuing Education Office between 9 a.m. and noon, and between 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. at 331-1884. Information will also be available in the high school guidance office Wednesdays between 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. at 331-6242.

There is no cost for program.

Robert R. Regan was reelected president at the December meeting. He is joined by Sidney Musker as vice president, Louis Gruberg as treasurer and Mrs. Jessie Goldsmith as secretary.

The Association, which also changed its name from the Ulster Businessmen's Association, at its December meeting, is seeking opinions from its members on the proposed repeal of Sunday Blue Laws. Regan (PPG Industries), Musker (Musiker Toyota) or John Warren, public relations man for the association, can be contacted.

Masons to Meet

A regular communication of Kingston Lodge No. 10 F and AM will be held Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. at the Kingston Lodge. All master masons are urged to attend.

Many Honor Tex Larabe

ROSENDALE — "There's nothing Tex liked better than to play before a full house," said the music man's proud widow, "and this is the fullest house I've ever seen."

And so it was Sunday at the Chateau Lounge as hundreds of people gathered to pay tribute to the life of Tex Larabe.

There was music from noon till midnight as Country and Western performers, who came from as far away as Tennessee and Maine, paid their tenuous respects to the colorful Country and Western star who died Dec. 20 driving truck near Buford, Ga.

"Tex did a lot for country and western music," said George Kithcart, who came to sing in memory of Tex. "He's the one who got it started in the area."

"There's a family spirit among country musicians," said Sonny Thompson of Sonny Thompson and The Mavericks. "That's the reason we have so many people here. We all stick together, and Tex was one of us."

"Tex was a man loved by everybody," said Bruce Coggins, one of the coordinators of the event, "and today it really shows."

The defense today will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple who was stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he had shot and killed Dean Corli, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police on Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which

"I'm trying to keep up from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions on the grounds Henley's constitutional rights were violated.

NEW PALTZ — The Dorian Woodwind Quintet, one of the world's leading chamber ensembles, will present a concert at the State University College at New Paltz on Tuesday.

The program will consist of works by Vivaldi, Beethoven, Jacques Ibert, Carl Nielsen and Lawrence Moss. The performance will take place in the Multipurpose Room of the Student Union Building starting at 8:15 p.m.

The quintet, whose members are artists in residence for the State University of New York, is popular on the campus both for its stylish concerts and for the informal lecture-demonstrations it often gives during its visits. As a leading exponent of the woodwind literature it also draws a considerable following from music lovers off campus.

FAMOUS ELEPHANT DIES — Ahmed, reputedly the world's most famous African elephant, who lived in Kenya's arid northern section, has died of natural causes at the age of 75, a government statement said late last week. The bull elephant with magnificent tusks weighing about 200 pounds each was accorded presidential protection by President Kenyatta in 1970, the only wild animal so protected according to Kenyan officials. MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our Mother, Marie N. Losey, who passed away two years ago, January 21, 1972.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead, she is just away;
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
She's wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
If needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you, who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and glad return.
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of There and the love of Here;
Think of her as still the same,
I say;
She is not dead, she is just away.

Love,

Expectant parents classes, co-sponsored by the Ulster County Health Department and the YWCA, are being held Tuesday evenings at YWCA at 7 p.m. These classes, conducted by Mrs. Jamie Hughes, public health nurse with the Ulster County Health Department, will provide an opportunity for mothers and fathers to learn the new role as parents.

Discussions with the use of visual aids will center on topics of family nutrition, preparations for hospital planning and infant care; including anticipatory health guidance and child development. Parents will be able to actively participate in formula making and bathing a baby.

Registration is still open and may be made by contacting the YWCA at 209 Clinton Avenue.

AFC Boots NFC, 15-13 In First 'Fumble Bowl'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — At least 18,139 Kansas Citians showed a great deal of savvy Sunday. They were ticket-holders who stayed away from the Pro Bowl.

But 51,484 did use their tickets in the 41-degree weather. And the game was telecast nationally, although living rooms across America must have been filled with the rumble of snoring by halftime. For what it's worth, the American Football Conference scored a 15-13 victory over the National Football Conference. And tiny Garo Yepremian, the 5-8 Cypriot who works his magic for the Miami Dolphins, kicked five field goals and was voted the most valuable player of the game.

The last field goal covered 42 yards and came with 21 seconds remaining. But the game was far from an artistic success. The two teams committed 15 fumbles, losing four apiece, and AFC quarterback Ken Stabler of Oakland suffered four second-quarter interceptions.

And then there were the errors that don't show up in the statistics, like countless dropped passes and passes that were far off their marks. The last four minutes were fairly exciting. The last turnover, this one a fumble by O. J. Simpson of Buffalo and recovered by Los Angeles' Jack Youngblood, gave the AFC possession at the AFC 20. Atlanta rookie Nick Mike-Mayer toed a 21-yard field goal with 1:41 left, giving the AFC a 13-12 lead.

But Miami's Bob Griese had a few tricks left, like four pass completions that moved the AFC to the NFC 36-yard line. And Yepremian kicked his fifth field goal of the game, surpassing the Pro Bowl record of four set by Jan Stenerud in 1972.

"I was hoping I'd get the chance," said Yepremian, "and once I did, I couldn't let the team down. I had to come through for them."

Yepremian's three-pointers covered, in order, 16, 37, 27, 41 and 42 yards.

He was hurt in the third quarter when Mel Renfro accidentally rolled into him after Yepremian made a 22-yarder. The Miami kicker had to be helped from the field, but when the AFC drew a five-yard penalty on the play, he raced back onto the field to kick the 27-yarder.

The injury was to Yepremian's left knee, which is his kicking leg.

"I'm worried about it," he said. "I don't know how bad it is, but it's bothering me."

"They ran the ball well and we didn't," said losing Coach Tom Landry of Dallas. "They kept putting the ball in position for the field goals. That probably was the biggest factor."

Added winning Coach John Madden of Oakland, "Our defense was outstanding and our offense moved the ball, but the turnovers hurt us."

But the best analysis was offered by NFC free safety Paul Krause of Minnesota, who said, "Who impressed me? Garo. They didn't get the ball into the end zone except for him, right?"

THE SYMBOL — Johnny Miller smiles as he holds his trophy for winning the Dean Martin Tucson Open, Sunday in Tucson, Ariz., with a 16 under par 272. Miller in winning this tournament tied Arnold Palmer's record made in 1962 of three consecutive wins. (UPI)

Records and Rest For Johnny Miller

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — That whooshing sound you hear? It's the collective sigh of relief being issued by the shell-shocked players on the pro golf tour. Johnny Miller is taking some time off and now, for the first time this year, somebody else will win a tournament. "With this cold and sore throat I have, if I don't take some time off, I'm cruisin' for a bruising. I'm committed for six weeks in a row starting in Hawaii. "If I played another tournament in between — seven more plus the three I've played — I'd do one of two things: I'd get pneumonia or my game would go bad."

Miller, a skinny, blond 26-year-old, scored a record-breaking third consecutive victory Sunday in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open and reluctantly decided to skip this week's Andy Williams' San Diego Open.

He held off Ben Crenshaw's challenge with a final round 68, four under par on the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club course, and won by three strokes with a 16-under-par total of 272. He has broken par in every competitive round he's played this season.

Miller, unbeaten this year, is the only man ever to sweep the first three tournaments of the season and is the first since Arnold Palmer in 1962 to win any three consecutive events.

"Four in a row would be nice," mused Miller, who leaped to world recognition with his record victory in the U.S. Open last summer. "But, like they say, if you don't have your health you don't have anything."

Miller won the weather-plagued Bing Crosby tournament followed that with a triumph at Phoenix and led all the way in this one.

The 22-year-old Crenshaw had a final round 69 for 275, J.C. Snead, 70, and Jerry Heard, 69, followed at 276.

Miller pulled down a $30,000 first prize and pushed his winnings to $90,000 in only three weeks. With his victory in the World Cup competition in Spain in his last 1973 start, Miller now has won his last four tournaments.

Who's UCLA? Tillow Has '83

GREENWOOD, Miss. (UPI) — UCLA may have been beaten but Tillow Academy keeps right on rolling.

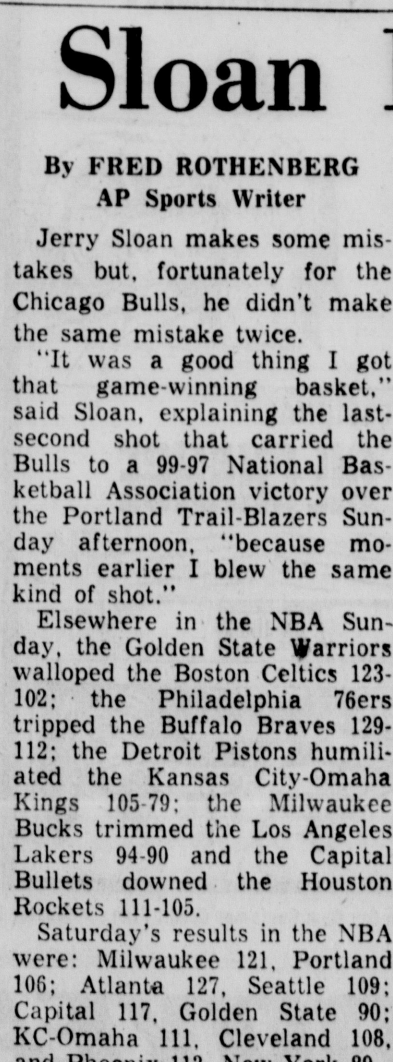

The Tillow Academy Mustangettes, a Mississippi girls high school basketball team under the coaching of Charles Wright, has compiled a school record of 83 consecutive victories over the past two and a half seasons. Coach Wright's record at Tillow is 85-1 dating back to a loss in November, 1971 against Fayette Academy of Somerville, Tenn.

The average height of the team is 5 feet, 9 inches which shows why they are called Wright's Jolly Green Giants.

BLOCKED SHOT — Celtics' Don Nelson (L) grimaces as he is blocked by Warriors' Clyde Lee during first quarter action in Boston, Mass. Sunday. Looking on is Celtics' Dave Cowens (R). Warriors won game, 123-102. (UPI)

Jerry Sloan makes some mistakes but, fortunately for the Chicago Bulls, he didn't make the same mistake twice.

It was a good thing I got that game-winning basket," said Sloan, explaining the last-second shot that carried the Bulls to a 99-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Portland Trail Blazers Sunday afternoon, "because moments earlier I blew the same kind of shot."

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Golden State Warriors walloped the Boston Celtics 123-102; the Philadelphia 76ers tripped the Buffalo Braves 129-112; the Detroit Pistons humiliated the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 105-79; the Milwaukee Bucks trimmed the Los Angeles Lakers 94-90 and the Capital Bullets downed the Houston Rockets 111-105.

Saturday's results in the NBA were: Milwaukee 121, Portland 106; Atlanta 127, Seattle 109; Capital 117, Golden State 90; KC-Omaha 111, Cleveland 108, and Phoenix 112, New York 89.

THE CLINCHER—Garo Yepremian kicks the winning field goal from the 36-yard line as Ken Stabler holds the ball, Sunday in the Pro Bowl at Kansas City, Mo. The AFC won the game 15-13. Yepremian set a Pro Bowl record by kicking five field goals in the game. (UPI)

Sore Knee Didn't Stop Garo

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Oakland's Marv Hubbard finished second in Most Valuable Player balloting Sunday, but he didn't mind at all: The man who finished first won the Pro Bowl for the AFC All-Stars and showed some class in doing it.

"Garo Yepremian won it for us," Hubbard said. "Sore knee and all, he did the job."

Yepremian came back from a hard, rolling hit in the third period to kick a 42-yard field goal with 21 seconds left in the game. That kick—a Pro Bowl record fifth—boosted the AFC to a 15-13 win over the NFC.

"My knee is very sore," Yepremian said. "I didn't think I could kick again, but the guys were counting on me. I had to come through for them. There was a lot of pressure—if you miss a field goal and the other team wins, you've let your whole team down."

Hubbard was the consensus MVP until Yepremian's final kick. The Oakland running back rushed for 104 yards on 17 carries.

"It was kind of a fun game," Hubbard said. "We played with good people. The offensive line was doing the job for us. It was just hard to hold on to the ball."

The game was punctuated by 12 turnovers—eight by the AFC and four by the NFC.

"There's a substance on the balls that's usually sticky but it wasn't there," said NFC quarterback John Hadl of Los Angeles. "That ball was a slick item to hold onto."

Hadl and NFC Coach Tom Landry said the cold air and high humidity at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium could have been a factor as backs fumbled and key passes slipped through the hands of usually sure-handed receivers.

Landry said the slippery ball was a definite factor, but the major reason for the AFC's win was the rushing of Hubbard and O. J. Simpson, who gained 76 yards.

"The AFC ran the ball so well and we didn't," Landry said. "They kept putting it in position for Yepremian's field goals."

The game wasn't exciting until the final three minutes as the lead changed back and forth.

"The Pro Bowl is a hard game to get up for after the Super Bowl," said Miami's Dick Anderson. "I don't think anyone was emotionally prepared."

"But it was satisfying because there are still a few people around who think the NFC is superior to the AFC. Of the Pro Bowl."

They keep saying that—and we keep beating them. Pride counts for a lot. If you play only for money, you'll never make it."

The win was the AFC's third straight in the four year history of the Pro Bowl.

Boo's Tavern stopped Annandale Hotel, 52-39, in other league play.

Link, the Archers' pivot man, was sorely missed by the losers. Meanwhile Uhl didn't miss much of anything. Jumpin' Joe canned 26 points, a few below his league-leading average, as Artie's pulled away in the second half to victory.

The Archers had to give up the boards in this one. Jim Alba Annandale tilt, a disputed 14 points, and Jim Wherry added 16 points and nine rebounds. Ethan Allen was led by Frank Allen, Rocky Secreto and Kevin Jones who all scored 18 points.

The Handlebar held a safe lead throughout the contest in recording a third consecutive 90-plus performance. Six of the seven Bars were in double figures with A. J. Murphy popping 24 to head the list.

In the third period of the Boo's-Annandale tilt, a disputed call by the official brought a storm of technical fouls. When the storm turned to a hurricane, the game was called. Tom Tegeler had 16 points to lead the abbreviated victory.

Rain Halts NASCAR Race

By JIM COUR UPI Sports Writer

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Bobby Allison took the pole away from David Pearson in NASCAR's Grand National opener Sunday, but that's all that was settled.

A heavy downpour drenched an estimated 44,500 race fans and caused postponement—until next Saturday—of the $103,000 Winston Western 500 with only 63 laps, 165 miles, completed.

When the 500 miler resumes at Riverside International Raceway at noon PDT next Saturday, Allison, the 36-year-old veteran from Hueytown, Ala., will be in the lead, followed by four-time Grand National champion Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., in second place.

Pearson, the No. 1 qualifier from Spartanburg, S.C., was running third when the rain came.

"It's pretty hard to make 3,800 pounds stick on the track even if it isn't slick," smiled Petty. "And when it's slick, you practically need steel spikes out there."

Allison, the 1972 Martini & Rossi driver of the year who won only two races last season, said he expects a banzai charge in the final 335 miles.

"The balance of this race," he offered, "is going to be a lot more competitive. You can map out the remainder of the race while you're waiting. "You can't do that while you're running."

Petty, who captured six races a year ago and finished third in the NASCAR earnings, added, "It will be a very short race now."

Jerry Sloan makes some mistakes but, fortunately for the Chicago Bulls, he didn't make the same mistake twice.

"It was a good thing I got that game-winning basket," said Sloan, explaining the last-second shot that carried the Bulls to a 99-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Portland Trail Blazers Sunday afternoon, "because moments earlier I blew the same kind of shot."

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Golden State Warriors walloped the Boston Celtics 123-102; the Philadelphia 76ers tripped the Buffalo Braves 129-112; the Detroit Pistons humiliated the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 105-79; the Milwaukee Bucks trimmed the Los Angeles Lakers 94-90 and the Capital Bullets downed the Houston Rockets 111-105.

Saturday's results in the NBA were: Milwaukee 121, Portland 106; Atlanta 127, Seattle 109; Capital 117, Golden State 90; KC-Omaha 111, Cleveland 108, and Phoenix 112, New York 89.

The Bulls, who had lost five of their last six games plus their coach Dick Motta, sitting out the second game of a three-game suspension for a run-in with several referees, saw their 16-point lead melt into a 97-97 tie when Portland's Larry Steele sank a 20-footer with 16 seconds left.

Ed Badger, the former scout, is now 1-0 as the Bulls coach after taking over the coaching reins from trainer Dr. Robert Bell, who sat on the bench Friday night when Chicago lost to Detroit.

Pistons 105, Kings 79 The Kings arrived in Detroit dead-tired after suffering two flight delays the previous night, but they didn't delay the Pistons from registering their 11th victory in their last 25 games.

76ers 129, Braves 112 Buffalo twice reduced the Philadelphia lead, 89-75 after three periods, to six points early in the fourth quarter before Don May got hot.

Bullets 111, Rockets 105 Elvin Hayes scored 20 points and grabbed 20 rebounds while Mike Riordan and Archie Clark teamed for 50 points, leading Capital past Houston.

Warriors 123, Celtics 102 Clyde Lee returned to the Golden State lineup for the first time since injuring a knee two months ago and chipped in with nine rebounds in the first three quarters while Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins provided the firepower.

Bucks 94, Lakers 90 With 1:45 left to play Connie Hawkins' three-point play pulled Los Angeles into a 90-90 tie but the rest of the points were taken care of by Milwaukee's towering center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Jabbar soared to a season-high 39 points for the Bucks, who earned their fifth straight victory while snapping the Lakers' three-game winning streak.

Gilmore Wrecks Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Artis Gilmore's eyes flashed on the clock and then focused on Wendell Ladner's shot as it bounced off the rim of the basket.

"I saw it coming. I didn't know which way it was going to go," Gilmore said about the rebound he grabbed three feet from the basket with two seconds left. He tossed it in and lifted the Kentucky Colonels to a 106-105 victory over the New York Nets in an American Basketball Association game Sunday night.

"I was ready for it," Gilmore, who scored 17 points, said about the rebound he sank, giving the Colonels their fifth consecutive triumph.

Gilmore's winning basket capped a furiously played contest in which the Nets clawed back from a 52-51 halftime deficit to take a 105-104 lead with 10 seconds remaining on Julius Erving's two free throws. Five seconds earlier, Ladner had given the Colonels a 104-103 edge with a pair of free throws.

Kentucky took an early lead behind Dan Issel, who led his team with 34 points, but the Nets managed to trail by only one point at the half. The nets took their first lead at 93-90 when Erving, who paced all scorers with 35 points, connected on two straight jump shots with 5:26 left.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FALLING GRADES: (Q.) My school work is going down. My grades are awful. Should I go to the teacher and get it straightened out or what?—Tough Time in Texas.

(A.) If you know the bad grades are your fault because of lack of study, failure to concentrate, too much attention to non-school matters, or something else, talk to yourself and resolve to correct your habits of study and attention in the classroom.

If you do not know the reason for the poor grades, talk to your teachers and ask them what you can do to improve. Also ask your parents and close friends for suggestions about what you may be doing wrong.

LOSER: (Q.) My only true love got married and I am very upset. I wanted to marry her some day myself and still do but her parents found out we had been making love and broke us up.

I thought we would get back together but she met this guy and married him a month later. I will always love her and live for the day I will be with her. How can I make that day come faster?—Broken Up in Alabama.

(A.) You and your former girl friend made a mistake. Accept that fact. She has left you. Accept that fact. You will live and be happy again without her. Have faith in that fact. It will take time for the hurt to stop but it will stop. You can hurry THAT day by not nursing the hurt.

simply splinter to three hearts. Two hearts would be a force. Three hearts is what is called a 'splinter' bid. It establishes the last bid suit as trump and shows a heart singleton.

Oswald: "South like his hand, but knows his king of hearts won't be pulling full weight so he passes."

Jim: "Four spades makes, with an overtrick, and there is a fair play for six that fails when the diamond finesse loses. Thus, the slam isn't really a bad one, but it should not be bid. You need both a successful diamond finesse and reasonable breaks in other suits to bring it home."

Kissinger Cites Progress in Israel-Syria Talks

By United Press International

U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Washington today upon his return from the Middle East that he had made progress in getting talks started between Israel and Syria similar to those which resulted in the Suez Canal front troop disengagement pact between Israel and Egypt.

"I think we have made real progress in getting negotiations started between Israel and Syria," Kissinger told newsmen upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

"The most important thing," he said, "is that my trip may have marked the beginning of normal human relations in the area."

In Jerusalem, an Israeli government official said nothing concrete on the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights front emerged from Kissinger's talks in Damascus.

"There is nothing hard and dry," the official said. "There is the separation of forces and the prisoner of war issue. This might lead to a formula for talks by linking the two. This is the very beginning of the possibilities for talks."

Kissinger ended his nine-day Middle East tour, which took him to Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria, with a stopover in London for an hour of airport talks with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

As Kissinger left the Middle East behind, it appeared the troop withdrawals on the Suez front for which he won the approval of both Israel and Egypt would take place even faster than originally scheduled.

After a negotiating session at the Kilometer 101 desert outpost in Egypt, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's military commander, said the troop withdrawals would start on Friday instead of Sunday as originally scheduled.

Elazar said the pullback would be completed in 28 days instead of the 40-day deadline set in the withdrawal agreement signed last Friday.

One man who wasn't happy was Gen. Ariel Sharon, the daring tank commander who led the Israeli drive onto the canal's West Bank during the October war.

Sharon, who recently won a seat in parliament for the right-wing Likud bloc, quit the army Sunday and called the troop withdrawal a strategic and political defeat for Israel.

Kissinger flew from Jordan to Damascus Sunday for talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad and then back to Tel Aviv before flying to Washington by way of London.

He said Assad gave him ideas on how to resolve the issue of troop pullbacks and prisoner exchanges between Israel and Syria on the northern Golan Heights front.

"I brought some ideas on disengagement from Syria to the Israeli government," Kissinger told newsmen after a 75-minute meeting with Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon and Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

Eban said the Israeli cabinet would discuss the Syrian ideas at its regular meeting next Sunday.

In a meeting Sunday, Elazar and Lt. Gen. Mohammed Gamassy of Egypt agreed on prompt implementation of the accord.

The two generals promised to meet again Thursday at a final negotiating session, letting lower-level officers handle the rest of the pullback details.

Meanwhile, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy headed for Moscow today for three days of talks with Kremlin leaders. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, touring Arab capitals to explain the agreement, was heading from Abu Dhabi to Algeria.

EXPELS A DEVIL — An unidentified young couple that was exorcised by a Catholic priest said in a copyrighted story in the San Francisco Examiner that the "Devil revealed himself by knocking both of us down" during the ancient rite. Father Karl Pazelt (L), a 57-year-old Jesuit priest, performed the exorcism rituals last Fall to expel a Devil that harassed the couple and their two-year-old son by throwing shoes and setting fires. At right is a plastic basket which caught fire and melted, one of the mysterious phenomena which plagued the family. Father Pazelt said the family was the victim of demonic "obsession," where the "devil is not in the people, but around the people." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Diplomatic Offensive By S. Viet Government

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government launched a diplomatic offensive today to regain a chain of disputed islands seized by Chinese air, ground and sea forces in two hours of fierce fighting.

Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bac called in all foreign ambassadors to Saigon "to fully explain the situation" and filed complaints with the United Nations and "friendly" countries.

It took Chinese forces a total of two hours over the weekend to overrun three South Vietnamese outposts in the disputed Paracel Islands, a bleak archipelago in the South China Sea 200 miles from each country.

In Cambodia, rebels fired two Soviet-made rockets into Phnom Penh today, killing four laborers and wounding three others at the French-run Chup Rubber Plantation Co. office building.

The 100-minute battle Saturday and the 20-minute fight Sunday left Chinese troops in first shots in an oil war for control of the Paracels, which lie in a region believed to contain huge amounts of petroleum.

China and Vietnam have fought a series of wars over the past 2,100 years, but no shot had ever been fired over the archipelago until last weekend.

The two nations have long-standing claims to the island group. Both blamed each other for provoking the fighting, but offered no explanation why the centuries-old Paracels dispute came to a head last Saturday.

Some political observers, however, saw the battles as the first shots in an oil war for control of the petroleum reported off the islands.

A Saigon command spokesman reported at least 11 South Vietnamese soldiers slain and 35 wounded in the brief battles. Another 232 men were reported missing—presumed killed or captured.

He said at least 82 South Vietnamese went down with a patrol boat sunk by a Chinese sea-to-sea Styx missile. Another 150 were overrun by Chinese ground troops in Sunday's coordinated assault against three Saigon-held islands.

The spokesman said two Vietnamese warships sank two Chinese patrol boats and damaged two others. Each ship carried a crew of about 110.

Defense Spending Battle Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual fight over defense spending seems certain to escalate when the second session of the 93rd Congress gets the Pentagon's proposed budget for Fiscal 1975 next Monday.

The tentative outlay is a record $92.6 billion, at least $4.5 billion more than the highest previous public estimates and about $13 billion above what the administration asked for last year.

In straight dollars, it tops the all-time record of $80 billion spent in 1945 as World War II drew to a close. But the figures actually are not comparable because 1945 dollars were worth more than double.

The $92.6 billion figure has been circulated to key members of Congress and it is accounts for much of the possible that it may be revised proposed increase and will help downward between now and push the personnel portion of Jan. 28, when President Nixon the budget past last year's 60 sends it to the Hill along with per cent.

One big problem for congress- If the figure is not cut by the sional budget cutters, however, White House, the enormous is that 1974 is an election year, increase over last year seems Any bill to end the volunteer likely to provide opposition force and restore the draft from both liberals and conser- House and Senate at mid- The liberals feel that they summer and few congressmen have been cheated out of the would be willing to vote for it "peace bonus" for domestic just three months before an social programs that was election, staff analysts say.

Heath Hopes for Settlement With British Unions

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath made an all-out attempt today to reach a peace pact with labor unions and avoid an election showdown over Britain's crippling industrial crisis.

Heath called an afternoon meeting with the nation's major union leaders in a drive to find a way out of the key cause of million Britons out of their jobs—a two-month-old jobs slowdown by Britain's 269,000 coal miners.

The slowdown, combined with Arab oil cutbacks and a one-month-old overtime ban by 29,000 railroad engineers, forced the government to impose a three-day work week Dec. 31 throwing up to 1 million Britons out of their jobs.

Government sources said Heath has abandoned—at least for the time being—plans for an immediate general election by appeal for a new five-year mandate.

The sources said the Conservative prime minister has decided, instead, to concentrate on a peace settlement with the unions.

Heath met last week with leaders of the 10 million-member Trades Union Council (TUC), the British equivalent of the AFL-CIO, in an attempt to settle the coal dispute, but the talks broke down in deadlock.

The TUC leaders refused to give the government water-tight pledges against pushing for similar increases if the miners were granted pay hikes in excess of Heath's anti-inflation wage guidelines.

Union officials said the TUC leaders—in today's meeting with the prime minister—would try to persuade Heath to return immediately to a full five-day work week.

Some government officials said such a move was under consideration, but Lord Windlesham, government leader in the House of Lords, said Sunday it would be "premature."

The government said Thursday it might soon increase the work week to four days.

Energy Secretary Lord Carington said fuel stockpiles were larger than anticipated because of unusually mild weather and savings by consumers.

Full Length Skylab Mission Still Planned

HOUSTON (UPI) — Space No. 2, continued to fill their remaining days full of research work.

The troublesome gyro's spinning wheel slowed down three times Sunday, the same as it did Saturday. The slowdowns have become more frequent over the last few weeks and three were as many as had occurred in one day.

Flight Director Milton Windler said as the planned Feb. 8 splashdown drew near, he believes there would be merit to staying the full length even if the gyro were to fail.

There are plenty of "consumables," like food and extra clothing, aboard, he said, and only part of the scientific research endeavors by the crew would be curtailed.

The gyro is a 40-inch diameter sphere with a 22-inch diameter spinning wheel inside of it that responds to Skylab's movements up and down, relative to the ground, and pushes the ship back on course if it veers off.

Without it, Windler said he had no firm theory about what was happening to cause the more frequent slowdowns, but thinks working ones the lab has left, it might be blamed on the long since gyro No. 1 quit working period of sunlight the ship went through last week.

Hostage Relates 'Death' Feeling

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dianne Lewis, 28, divorced mother of a 10-year-old daughter, knew it was her time to die. She couldn't think of anything else.

A young gunman pushed the barrel of a .45-caliber pistol against her temple. They sat together in the back seat of a sedan as policemen raced toward the car.

"All I could think about was if the police start shooting he'll shoot me before they get him," she said today. "This was just the end. I couldn't think of anything else."

Mrs. Lewis, a supermarket employee, and 12 other persons had for 10 hours been the hostage of a would-be bandit. Her day began before dawn Saturday as she entered the grocery store with a dozen other employees. The gunman was waiting.

And now the sun was disappearing and she was 30 miles north of the city on a dead-end dirt road in a pine forest at a community known as Woodbranch.

"I figured they (police) would start shooting and he would shoot one of us. I was surprised he didn't start shooting them."

Virgil Stone, 29 days short of retirement from the police force, was the first to reach the car.

"He was holding the hostage with his left arm around her neck," Stone recalled Sunday.

"In his right hand was a chrome-plated pistol that belonged to Lt. Doss and it was held against the woman's right temple."

"I put the carbine in his left ear. He didn't move."

Stone's partner, Robert S. Arnold looked inside and saw the gunman and hostage in the back seat and another wounded hostage, Frieda Lummus, as well as police Lt. W.C. Doss sitting in the front seat.

"It was a Mexican standoff. It seemed like an hour to me," Arnold said.

A man identified as Wesley Earl Evans, 22, surrendered to officers who returned him to Houston. He was jailed without bond on charges of aggravated robbery and aggravated kidnapping.
